

Aleph Danial Watts

Candidate for 30th Virginia Council Aleph Godol

After being a part of BBYO for the last 3+ years I have learned lots and lots of things. One of these things is that the Virginia Council is the best council in the entire organization. My biggest desire is to keep VAC this way and make it even better. My three biggest goals as Godol are: increasing brotherhood in fraternity, increasing convention and chapter program attendance, and increasing recruitment across the council. These goals all go hand in hand with one another, with each individual goal helping with the others.

Brotherhood and fraternity are some of the most important aspects of AZA and unfortunately I believe our council is lacking in this area. Together, we can bring back what makes AZA what it is by any means possible!

Production from all parts of our council is key to a successful year and this is led by communication between one another. Combining an increased social media push and increased communication in the council, increased attendance at chapter events and conventions will be easily obtainable. This is essential to increasing the strength of our chapters and councils and will lead to more opportunities for leadership and more across the council.

Recruitment is not a one person job, rather it is the job of all members of the councils, regardless of being on board or not. Showing prospects what BBYO is and showing them why they should stay is necessary to keeping Virginia Council AZA strong and alive. Together, I know record recruitment numbers can be reached in all cities and AZA chapters in Virginia Council.

My brother Alephs, I foresee a year of great challenges and triumphs that will bring us a better and stronger council than has ever been seen. My goals can be reached without your help and I am excited to achieve these goals with you by my side!
