

CANDIDATE FOR THE NASSAU SUFFOLK REGION'S 41ST RAKKAZ SPENCER BRODWIN

VISION STATEMENT:

I want this to be clear, precise, and impactful, similar to the qualities I will bring to you as your 41st Regional Rakkaz. I am determined to bring the most impactful and meaningful conventions, in the sense of brotherhood. I will work wholeheartedly to make sure that our future conventions are the best ones to date. Conventions have always been about the bonds of brotherhood and fraternity. I will implement these aspects within every detail of convention as possible, in order to create the most thrilling conventions yet.

What flaws do you see in the current steering system and what ideas do you have to solve these problems?

I saw one major concern within the current steering system, and that is the lack of motivated steerers. One of the reasons I am running for your Regional Rakkaz is because I am motivated and determined to make a difference in our great region. I believe that quality is 100% more important than quantity. With that said, I plan to have an extensive application process for steerers that have the same desire that I have for running, to make a difference. The most impactful people in life stood out from the rest because they all had a common goal, to make a difference. NSR has the potential to make a difference, so let's do it.

How do you plan on keeping Alephs engaged for the entirety of the convention experience?

As mentioned previously, I stress the importance of how brotherhood and fraternity impact the entire convention experience. Keeping that in mind, the bonds people form come naturally, but that doesn't mean that they can't be influenced. At IC 2020, delegation meetings were implemented to keep track of each region across the world. In my experience, I was able to interact with Alephs that I usually would never talk to and from there became close with. I hope to have grade-only meetings during parts of convention to allow people to socialize on a common platform where everyone gets to meet someone new, that they never would have talked to. On top of that, I will strive to have steerers that dedicate themselves to the entirety of convention, making sure everyone has a great time. Meetings would be held beforehand in order to learn how they can influence Alephs for the betterment of convention.
